FRIDAY MORNING::::::: DECEMBER 18, 1874.

THE MORRILL BILL. The plan of the joint select committee appointed by Congress last spring to devise a form of government for the District of Columbia, which is embodied in the Morrill bill, cannot, it is very evident, be come a law in the brief time that remains of the present Congress. And in the next Congress there is not much prospect that it will be ever heard of or seen. We do not regret the fate which is so rapidly overtaking it; the bill ought to be killed, primarily because it is, as Mr. Morton characterized it in the Senate yesterday, anti-Republican in the spirit and the letter. Independently of this, it is clumsy and intricate in its details, and would bring us no improvement whatever in the management of our affairs. Again, it is unjust inasmuch as it provides a rate of taxation which is oncrous in the extreme. In a word, the general criticism may be passed upon the bill that it does not satisfy anybody except the gentlemen who have drawn it. Mr. Morrill and the gentlemen associated with him have undoubtedly given the subject a good deal of consideration, and he is entitled to the thanks of our citizens for the labor and pains bestowed upon his 'little book,' as Mr. Thurman calls it, but he and his co-laborers started out upon a wrong and false theory, and he must not be surprised or angered if his production is so amended that it will be impossible for him to recognize it; or if, which is more probable, it is consigned to the oblivion of the file-rooms and the calendar that will never be called.

In the Senate yesterday the lines were pretty fairly and unmistakably drawn upon the bill, or rather upon what an evening cotemporary is occasionally so facetious over, the "principle" involved in it. Mr. Morton and Mr. Thurman came to the front upon opposing sides, the one a Republican and the other a Democrat, the former against a restriction of the suffrage here and the latter in favor of its total abolition. That Mr. Morton should take the ground he did is not surprising. In the body of which he is a member he is in the foremost rank of its leaders and statesmen. with a record of proud achievement and unwavering devotion to Republican principles and ideas. To be consistent, he could not have done anything else. But how about Mr. Thurman? A Democrat, he has lost all faith in Democracy, while in the literal, and not the partisan, meaning of the word implies a government by the people and of the He wants a government of the aristocracy, of the select few. Mr. Thurman would not dare to present the ideas he presented in the Senate yesterday to the meanest and most insignificant constituency in his own State. If he dared to do so they would ride him out of town, tarred and feathered, within the hour. Why can he not be consistent, as Mr. Morton is? Why does he not stand by his principles and the principles of his party? Why, it is only a month since he addressed a serenading party in this city, congratulating them upon the great victory they had won. Then, on the night of November 3., he told the men gathered around his house with music and banners that he had unalterable faith in them-"the people;" that they had been always right, were right then, and he knew they would be right in the future. He was willing to trust the Government to them, &c. But Mr. Thurman yesterday forgot all this, and announced from his seat in the Senate, announced to the same people who serenaded him only six weeks ago, that he could not trust them with the management of their own local affairs. There he stands, relf-contradicted, self-stultified.

In this whole matter we contend for the "principle," the principle that in this country there can be no taxation without repre sentation; that over every single inch of this Republic the people shall have the right to manage their own affairs in their own way. Last night and the night before our citizens crowded the Capitol to renew the pledges their fathers gave one hundred years before at the risk of their lives and fortunes to the principle of local government. Next morning the same walls, the same Capitol re-coched the sonorous sentences of Mr. Thurman repudiating all that it heard the night before. What a farce and a fraud and a sham the whole thing is; what tricksters and time-servers and demagogues we have as the product of the century. We rejoice that the lines were drawn yesterday as they were in the Senate. On the one hand we have the Democratic leader false to his principles, and on the other the Republican leader, true and firm, and fair and square upon the record. During the last two or three years the Republican party in Congress has done many foolish and unwise things, but we have the faith that in this matter it will not be insane enough to follow the leadership of Mr. Thurman. In this District the experiment was first made of giving the black man the suffrage. Has it come to this, that the Republican party admits and acknowledges its failure? And is it ready to try the further experiment of taking the suffrage away from white and black alike?

POLITICAL QUACKERY. Who invented it? It is a very nice little machine. It works pretty well for the first time. But it does not wear well. Its cloven hoof soon appears, and then even the indorsement of the Associated Press will not save it. We refer to the practice now so prevalent of two or three interested firms, with high-sounding names, holding "trade meetings" or conventions, (on paper generally,) and palming off their "cut and dried" proceedings upon the agents of the Associated Press as highly interesting and important to be transmitted to Washington by telegraph. The idea is that if such stuff comes here by telegraph and is printed in the morning papers, members of Congress will read it, under the impression that it. not important. Reports of several such meetings have reached us lately of which we were able to find no trace whatever in the local press of the cities in which they were alleged to have occurred. The Washington press begins to inquire who it is that is attempting to farm out its columns in the interest of the various jobs and projects of changes of tariffs and internal improvements of a sectional character which come over the wires night after night. It is not to be suspected for a moment that the press agents are so dull as not to know that matter so insignificant as not to be considered worth printing at home will scarcely be highly appreciated here. We submit that this sort of lobbying in the night time | refusal to register legal voters, the stuffing over the shoulders of a dull, hurried and of ballot-boxes, the defacing, stealing, con-unfair to the press of Washington, but that it is a "dead open and shut" sell on its readers, members of Congress included.

We have had the bogus Pig-Iron National Convention and its resolutions, and the "Linen Trade" and its recommendations, and the trans-continental rallway scheme, as commended by some self-constituted committee of some mutual admiration or mutual interest association, &c., &c., and we do not hesitate to say that no single one of the petitions and resolutions aforesaid would have reached the dignity of an order to print had it been presented to either House of Congress by a member. The objects advocated may be all very good and proper, but we object to taking and paying for them, and printing them under false pretences. Again, perhaps, it is just as well that those political quacks, who engineer these bogus meetings, should be told that such operations have ceased to have any infuence upon Congress. Take the desired changes in the tariff for instance. No legitimate importer desires any change in the tariff unless it is to be a permanent change. It is only the speculator who has made heavy contracts, with the view of securing a change of duty by which his profits may be increased. The honest manufacturer and importer desires, above all other things, stability in a tariff. Both these parties know that they make the consumer pay the duty ultimately, and that, therefore, it matters but little to the importer whether the duty be high or low.

The worst feature of this species of quack cry above described is that some reputable rms allow the use of their names by such uacks. If merchants do not wish to be lassed as "shams" and "kite-flyers" in the Departments here as well as in Congress. they should beware how they delegate to "trade associations." composed chiefly of a self-elected secretary and treasurer, the power to use their names for political and obbying purposes. We have no doubt that many New York firms would be amazed to hear and see the things which are said and done and threatened even in Washington in their names.

The "Sellers" family has an idea that the present will be a good winter for operations, and it is out in full force. It offers almost everything for sale, and is willing to buy largely also. In fact it will not do anything in a small way. Do you wish to handle the press? Put down the cash and 'Sellers' will move it in any direction, upon any given subject. Do you wish to influence a member? "Sellers" will show you how it is to be done-for money paid to "Sellers." But seriously, this whole Sellers family has not a cent's worth of influence with anybody whose vote is worth the having. It has no talent for writing anything which the press will print, for it cannot produce anything from which the ob will not protrude recognizably. It is said that some few of the more verdant of New York speculators of the importing class have bled quite freely to support a few members of the "Sellers" family here this winter, in the hope that they can effect the restoration of the old, loose way of administration of the tariff laws by their money is a dead loss. Secretary Bristow is determined to continue his reforms in the administration of the customs laws to the bitter end. The friends of the weighers and assistant weighers, and the whole tribe of thieves who have fattened upon "damage allowances" and other ill-gotten gains to the amount of several millions annually, and those high-toned smugglers who make annual trips to Europe and bring in Jiamonds and silks enough free of duty when they return to pay the expenses of travel and of a recherche establishment at home during the balance of the year, may fume and fret and strut and thunder through the selfstyled independent press at him to their hearts' content. It will have no effect upon him. He is satisfied that he has gauged the "Sellers" family, and found them wanting. He has discovered their tricks and put his veto upon them. None but real damages are to be allowed in future. Honest weights are to pass between purchaser and seller, or between importer and Government, and no extra fees. In short, it looks very much as though the Treasury receipts next year from the same quantity of goods imported would show an excess of several millions over those of the last, while the expenses of collection promise a reduction of at least a million. The quacks will see by these facts that their whole game is blown; that it is not worth while for them to waste time and money and breath in efforts to change the policy of the Government. They had much better start out at once upon that

course of industry, economy and honesty

which must afford them future subsistence

Representative White, of Alabama, thorough Republican, and one of the most careful as well as capable lawyers in the House, has recently given the questions arising from the failure of the so-called Enforcement Act to accomplish its purpose much thought, the result of which he has embodied in a bill now pending before the Judiciary Committee. It is so carefully drawn that thus far no objection has been offered to it except from sources tainted with White League influences. To those who have studied the condition of the South, who know by what direct and indirect influences colored voters are deprived of the right of suffrage, and who understand the full meaning of the word intimidation, as applied to "Southern outrages; it requires no explanation, because they will at once acknowledge the inefficiency of the Enforcement Act to remedy those evils. One method pursued by the Opposition to accomplish these results has been to carry fire-arms on election days, not for use in every instance, although the record of every election since the New Orleans riots of 1866 shows that they have often been used, but because they knew that the moral effect of the act would be sufficient to cow and overawe their unarmed opponents. To guard against this Mr. White has introduced a section into his bill providing as follows: "That any person or persons using firearms, or proposing to use fire-arms, or other deadly weapons, offensively against any individual, or individuals, or assemblages of individuals, at or near the place, and on the day or days of any election of a Representative or Delegate to the Congress of the United States, for the purpose of intimidating or injuring such person or persons, either before or after the election, or while the same is progressing. shall be guilty of a crime, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and imprisoned in the penitentlary not would not have been telegraphed if it were less than one year and not more than three years, at the discretion of the court trying the same: Provided, That if in the commission or attempt to commit the offences herein enumerated, or any of them, the person or persons so offending shall do any act which is a felony by the laws of the State or Territory whereto such act is done, upon conviction thereof the offender, in addition to the punishment above and herein provided for, may be punished as provided by the laws of the State or Territory for such felony: Provided further, That the open or concealed carrying of fire-arms or deadly weapons at such election shall be taken as presumptive evidence of the intent to in!

timidate under this act." Other provisions are to the effect that punishment shall follow false registration.

perhaps sleepy night editor is not only cealing or mutilating ballots or poll-lists, and giving the United States District and Circuit Courts jurisdiction over all such

> The more carefully these provisions are examined the more it will appear that they are designed merely to secure fair elections. When we remember that with the present Congress the opportunity of the Republican party to protect its followers against Ku-Klux and White League outrages will end, the importance of this measure becomes apparent. Let it pass it at once.

> In our abstract in yesterday's issue of the reply of the Secretary of War to the House esolution calling for information in regard to the claim of Sugg Fort, of Robertson county, Tenn., recommended for payment by the Com missary General of Subsistence, the name of Hon. Charles O'Neill, of the Pennsylvania delegation, was given as the person presenting the claim to that officer. In the hurry of transcribing the papers in the case the name of Hon. Charles O'Neill was substituted for that of Charles C. O'Neill, an attorney in this city, who first presented the case to the Commissary General and to whom the papers were returned by the Commissary General, as appears in his letter included in the papers fur nished by the Secretary of War. We make this correction as an act of justice to Mr O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, whose first knowledge of the case was derived from THE RE-PUBLICAN of yesterday.
